

Creating an annotated bibliography:

Each entry (5 minimum) consists of reference page citation and an annotation.

References entry: follow APA style as you would on the references page of your final paper, including alphabetizing, using a hanging indent, double spacing, no extra spaces between entries, etc.

Written component:

What is the main idea/focus/argument of the source? (thesis, premise)

Who is making the argument and why are they credible? (consider author, publisher, publication, etc.)

What are the supporting points? How does the author argue/present/organize the ideas?

How will you use this source? (section of your paper, key information, opposition) This part can be written in 1st person.

Ethical Outsourcing: An Annotated Bibliography

AICPA sets ethical standards for outsourcing. (2005). Journal of Accountancy, 199(1), 8.

Retrieved from <http://www.journalofaccountancy.com/>

This article presents the new standards for outsourcing developed by the AICPA ethics committee. The standards are summarized, and a brief discussion is included of the implications going forward for business and international trade. The authors indicate that changes to the business community will be relatively minor. Although no author is listed, the source is a peer-reviewed article from a publication that focuses on accounting. This source offers an overview of the current ethics standards in outsourcing, which I will use in the current situation of my essay to help explain the standards that all businesses are required to follow.

No need to create a title page, abstract, etc. for this. Save it with your name as the document's name! Share with me by Wednesday, April 1.

You will lose points for not formatting your entries and the document correctly.

FAQS

1. How do I include my visual source in the annotated bibliography?

If the visual is a part of an article, book, etc., simply include that source in your references page. Note in the last sentence that you will use the visual in your paper.

If the visual stands on its own, such as an infographic, a painting, etc., you will need to look up how to format the references page entry. Look at all the types of sources Purdue's OWL will help you with!!!!!!

2. What if I have more than 5 sources?

You are only required to submit the 5 sources that show you have met the research requirements. No need to annotate the rest!

3. What if I add more sources after I submit my annotated bibliography?

Doing more research in the drafting stage, when you realize you need facts and details you didn't anticipate, is a normal part of the research process. No need to revise or update your annotated bibliography.

4. Should I copy my annotated bibliography into my paper?

Copy the reference entries only; delete the annotations. Make sure you update this on your final draft so your references page reflects ALL the sources you used.

5. Should the toilet paper be pulled over the roll or under the roll?

It's not the time to be picky, kids. Just ration it carefully, whichever way you pull.

Send me the questions I didn't anticipate!
